The paradox of our 21st century

- Le paradoxe du 21e siècle : un monde où la violence n'a jamais été aussi faible mais où l'hypothèse d'une 3^{ème} guerre mondiale reste vivace

(des chiffres à faire froid dans le dos)

On the evening of March 27, 2002, Richard Durn committed suicide after having massacred 14 people and wounded 15 more at the municipality in Nanterre. In his diary he had written :

“J’ai perdu le sentiment d’exister. Je sens que je vais devoir faire quelque chose de mal pour éprouver ce sentiment au moins une fois dans ma vie. Pour exister, il faut recevoir de quelqu’un un savoir, et le redonner à quelqu’un d’autre”.

2015 : France, Tunisia and India

- In 2015 : Charlie Hebdo, the Musée Bardo, Hotel in Sousse, the Bataclan, bus explosion in Tunis, floods in Chennai ...
- One of APICS' themes since 2014 : Supply Chain as a force for good
- « Companies count on logistics experts—one of the fastest growing professions in the world—to get their products to their customers on time and on budget. »
 - Abe Eshkenazi, CEO, APICS
- What is MGCM's contribution?
 - I'ICP : Sponsor a student for Institut Catholique de Paris's intercultural program on secular thinking,
 - Supply Chain Magazine : Organize a conference on humanitarian logistics.
 - Work with APICS : transmission of knowledge and education.
- We must make the world a better place for our children to live in.
